GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, MILLEDGEVILLE, GA., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1933

GYMNASIUM AND APARTMENT TO BE ERECTED

Beauty Special Leaves Thurs.

Students to Return January 2 to Begin Winter Quarter.

The Beauty Special leaves Thursday morning at 11:30 sharp with G. S. C. W. girls and a large shipment of Christmas spirit aboard.

Already loud wailings are heard from excited damsels who "just can't wait" until December 21.

Suitcases over-fattened with will-be adornment, valuable replicas of "him," and a profusion of what-nots are cast into the middle of the floor. No amount of reasoning seems to persuade the affected ones that it is too early for such demonstration. Life has turned into one grand leap over packed paraphernalia.

A stream of beauties is ready to advance upon the transportation. Big ones, little ones, and in-betweens in a variety of this season's leading shades.

But they will be back and ready for classes when the bell tinkles rustily at 8:00 o'clock, the morning of January 3—almost early enough to awaken the New Year. Not so eager as they are new, but nevertheless, alert (it is hoped).

Merry Christmas and a mag-nanimous New Year!

Miracle Room Girls Receive Gift From Macon Author

Harry Stillwell Edwards likes G. S. C. He also likes G. S. C. students.

It all began when during one of his visits he requested the privilege of seeing a typical college girl's room. His request was granted and he was shown room 72 Mansion. When he returned home he wrote it up in his column, Coming Down My Creek and called it the "Miracle Room."

And Saturday when he came over to talk to the Literary Guild he did not forget the "Miracle Room Girls." He brought a five pound box of candy and gallantly presented it to them. The lucky girls were Caroline Wilder, Lillian Jordan, Jane Cowan, and Lillian Woods.

Mrs. Eliot Dunwody Sings In Chapel

Mrs. Eliot Dunwody, of Macon, rendered several delightful solos to an enthusiastic student body in the G. S. C. W. auditorium Tuesday. She was accompanied by Mrs. Albert Jelks a member of the Wesleyan Conservatory of Music. Her selections were "Spirit Flower," "Little Star," "Ho! Mr. Piper," "L'Amour Toujours," and "Kiss Me Again."

Misses Horsbrugh, Purdom Play In Macon Orchestra

Miss Beatrice Horsbrough and Miss Natalie Purdom were among those playing first violin for the "music for the masses" concert at the Macon auditorium Monday evening.

Miss Horsbrugh stated that the concert was the most successful one presented by the Macon Symphony Orchestra during its three seasons of organization. She attributes this to the charming personality and capability of the conductor, Joseph Maerz.

The program on Monday was an experimental adventure presented to ascertain from the public.

Russian Chorus Gives Performance Here

The world-famous Russian Chorus, conducted by Mme. Agre-neva Slaviansky, appeared at the Richard B. Russell auditorium Friday evening at eight o'clock.

In addition to singing a remarkable program of choral selections, ranging from the severely classical to the light and humorous folk songs, and presenting Russian and Gypsy dances, the chorus featured several brilliant soloists.

Ivan Butenko was one of the most interesting members of the chorus. He has sung with the team for over forty-seven years, having covered every country on the entire globe. His melodious bass voice, blending with and forming a foundation for the other voices of the choir, was one of the greatest treats of the Russian performance.

The Slaviansky Russian Chorus was founded in 1858, and for seventy-seven years has brought its interpretation of Russian and Slavic music to every civilized country of the world.

Dean Hutchins Leading In Popularity Contest

Dean Hutchins, of Milledgeville with 86,435 votes, was leading in the G. S. C. W. Popularity contest being sponsored by the Times when last week's results were published.

Betty Watkins is second and next in line are Jean Howe, Jewel Bowdoin, Virginia Dunn and Ethlyn Baston.

The contest closes at noon Wednesday. The winner will receive $25; second place, $15; third, $10, and fourth, $5.

Popular Author Speaks at G S C

Mrs. Carolyn Miller Speaks at Chapel and at A. A. U. W. Meeting.

"If you wish to do a thing hard enough, you can do it," stated Mrs. Carolyn Miller of Baxley Georgia, author of "Lamb in His Bosom," a recent popular novel, in her speech to the students and faculty of the Georgia State College for Women Wednesday in the Richard B. Russell Auditorium.

She continued, saying, "You don't need money, name, and pull but just grit, faith and a will to do. I am a living example of what an ordinary Georgia girl can accomplish."

With her naive and disarmingly delightful personality Mrs. Miller completely won the hearts of all who heard her. The statement, "I had rather live in South Georgia than anywhere in the world," was the theme of the first half of her speech which dealt with that section of the state.

The other half was a discussion of her recent book and her career as a wife and mother which was closely associated with it.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Miller was guest speaker at the A. A. U. W. meeting in the Mansion. Dr. Enri Belle Bolton had charge of the program which was opened by a musical selection played by Natalie Purdom and Dorothy Ellis. Miss Winifred Crowell introduced Mrs. Miller who talked on the same theme used at the chapel period.

At the close of the program refreshments were served.

This charming author was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Beeson during her visit in Milledgeville.

Mrs. Sidney L. McGee was hostess at a dinner party Tuesday evening honoring Mrs. Miller and Miss Cromatie who accompanied her. Mrs. J. L. Beeson honored the guests Wednesday at a luncheon.

Council Elects McIver Leader

Elsie McIver of Savannah is the newly-elected president of freshman council. Other officers chosen Thursday, December 14, were vice-president, Jane O'Neal of College Park; secretary, Dorothy Meadows of Albany; and treasurer, Marjorie Lanier of Soperton.

Helen Barker presided over the meeting and Polly Moss discussed the duties of the officers. Margaret K. Smith told interesting incidents of her recent trip to New York.

Mrs. Carolyn Miller

Author of "Lamb in His Bosom" visits Milledgeville.

First Issue Of Corinthian Out

The first issue of the new and better Corinthian came out Saturday December 16, replete with a new cover, a larger seal, many cuts, and thirty pages of excellent reading matter.

It contains all the first-prize contest selections and several second-prize. Among the former, the short stories are "Sympathy Speaks" by Margaret Harvin and "A Scrap of Cloth" by Rose Herndon; the essays are "Color of Moods" by Betty Todd and "Poet of the Beautiful" by Martha Cheney; the poems are "Understanding" by Grace E. Greene and "In Line" by Harriet Mincey.

Second prize selections included are two poems: "And You Were in It," by Frances X. Profumo and "Insignificant" by Catherine Mallory.

In the alumnae section appears an article, "Richard Burbage, His Influence on Shakespeare," by Dorothy Lipham; and two poems by Marion Keith, "Three Parts" and "Ghosts in the Rain."

Ann Jones' Exchange Column gives comments on different student literature.

An editorial, "Learn To Think," by the editor, Helen Ennis, is most inspiring. Alice Brim's review of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness!" gives an excellent discussion of the book and comments on the author. An essay "Why?" and a short story "Aloe" by Dorothy Wilkinson complete the issue.

Work To Begin At Early Date

$295,200 Granted College For New Buildings and Repairs.

According to newspaper reports, the Public Works Administration has allocated over three million dollars to the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. This loan will permit construction of buildings required to meet the need for increased facilities and to repair buildings.

Of the loan G. S. C. W. will get $292,200. A faculty apartment house will be built for $105,800, a building for health and physical education will cost $155,000 water connection $5,000, and there will be $26,400 for repairs. Construction work is expected to begin in 30 or 60 days or as soon as formal contracts can be drawn, and bids advertised.

Surveys of the campus are being made now, and the new buildings and the repairs will further beautify the campus as well as aid in making the work easier and more enjoyable.

Other colleges under the university system of Georgia will benefit from the loan and the higher places of learning can rise to still higher places with the aid given them by the government.

President Beeson expects to receive official confirmation of this loan within a short time.

Dr. Beeson and Dr. Scott Attend Meeting In Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. J. L. Beeson and Dr. E. H. Scott represented G. S. C. W. at a meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Nashville, Tennessee recently.

The meeting was attended by presidents and deans of various southern colleges and universities. Problems that are met in present-day education were discussed, as were plans for the association for the year.

Dr. Scott presented the triennial report of this college.

Dr. Beeson was in Nashville from December 5-12, and Dr. Scott was there from December 2-9.

The Education Club had its regular meeting Saturday night at seven o'clock in Dr. Webber's classroom. Dr. Webber spoke on student government.

An Old-fashioned Christmas

The depression through which we are passing has had its good points and has brought its own painful blessings in the form of much-needed lessons. Perhaps the Christmas season will reveal still another valuable by-product of the economic slump.

For most of us, this year it will be necessary to cut down on our expenditures for gifts considerably. A larger percentage of presents will be made by hand than in previous years. It will be necessary to repeat the trite old adage, "It isn't the value of the gift that counts; it's the sentiment" many times, and perhaps we will even begin to believe it.

Perhaps this year we cannot afford to go out so much during the holiday season as we have been accustomed to do. That will necessitate a more frequent assembling of the family group. We will not have quite as sumptuous a fare to eat; perhaps we will feel more like turning our minds to less material things.

Perhaps without so much of the tinsel and glitter and superficiality of the usual Christmas to distract our attention, we will come nearer to the foundations. We may even remember how Christmas began and what it is supposed to stand for, and let a Christ-like spirit in giving replace the former showy extravagance.

If the depression is a means of causing Christians to more nearly realize once again the true meaning of Christmas, surely it has its good points.

Patter

Among the recent books Ellen Glasgow likes "Special Delivery" by Branch Cabell, "Never Ask the End" by Isabel Patterson, and "Flush: A Biography" by Virginia Woolf. Dorothy Canfield likes "Saint Saturnin" by Jean Schulmberger, "As the Earth Turns" by Gladys Hasty Carroll, and "The Great Offensive" by Maurice Hindus. DuBose Heyward likes "Anthony Adverse" by Hervey Allen, "The Scottish Queen" by Herbert Gorman, and "Weep No More" by Ward Green.

Don Blanding's latest book of wanderlust poetry is "Let Us Dream." "Imperial In-sense" by the Princess Der Ling is the story of court life in the Forbidden City.

A novel of laughter is "Four Day's Wonder" by A. A. Milne. "Senator Marlowe's Daughter" is a international romance by Frances Parkinson Keyes.

The ten most important plays on Broadway this season have been edited by Burns Manther in "The Best Plays of 1932-33." They are "Both Your Houses," "Dinner at Eight," "When Ladies Meet," "Design for Living," "Biography," "Alien Corn," "We, the People," "One Sunday Afternoon," "Pigeons and People," "The Late Christopher Bean."

About live books and authors is "End Papers" by A. Edward Newton. "Albert Goes Through" is J. B. Priestley's tended and delightful comedy of a movie-struck young man's search for true love.

Slang from Hollywood to Broadway is treated by H. T. Webster in "They Don't Speak Our Language" from the current Forum.

A chapter from "Death Comes for the Archbishop" by Willa Cather has been made into a lovely gift book for Christmas under the title of "December Night."

Modern child, stroking her new kitten: "Mummy, it's left its motor running."

J. M. Barrie says: "Not in doing what you like, but in liking what you do is the secret of happiness."

Courtesy?

A consideration of the behavior in the dining room might not be amiss.

Often some do not seem aware that the blessing is being asked; consequently, many cannot hear because of the noise. The conduct must rest entirely with the students; each girl has a responsibility.

Sometimes a distinguished guest is asked to speak or give thanks. The girls then usually cease talking, but they are thoughtless enough to forget how noisy the clink of silver ware against china can be.

Nothing so marks us and the homes from which we come as our so-called "table manners." "A hint to the wise is sufficient."

Radio Message

(This is the radio message made by Dr. William T. Wynn when the senior class gave its radio program December 7.)

The Georgia State College for Women was established in 1889. It is a liberal arts college, a teacher training institution, and a vocational school. "It strives to train its students to know something," says President Beeson, "to do something, and above all, to be somebody." During the forty-four years of its existence only three presidents have served—Dr. J. Harris Chappell until 1905, then Dr. Marvin M. Parks until 1926, and since then Dr. Jasper Luther Beeson.

Withal it is distinctly planned and operated for women, with home-making, teaching and other pursuits for them ever in the forefront.

The main campus, with the recreational center, contains thirty-nine acres. The dormitories provide modern accommodations for 1100 students; the class room buildings, library, auditorium, and hospital are also adequate in arrangement and equipment.

The faculty of highly trained men and women from the best colleges and universities in America and Europe have been chosen because of their fitness for the particular tasks assigned them.

Four degrees are offered—Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Science in Education, and Bachelor of Science in Home Economics.

G. S. C. W. was

1. The first tax-supported college for women in the state, and the second in the nation to receive public funds.

2. The first in the state to offer modern professional training for teachers.

3. First to provide practice under expert supervision.

4. First in the southeast to place home economics and health on a par with other courses.

The college has a high rating as indicated by its membership in the leading educational associations.

Its graduates are admitted, without conditions, to the great universities of America for work towards advanced degrees.

Its alumnae are located in every county in Georgia, in practically every state in the nation, and in many foreign countries.

President Beeson, the faculty, and the students are happy to express through the senior class of this year their greetings and best wishes to the alumnae and friends, who are listening in, with the hope that they may enjoy a better acquaintance with the new G. S. C. W.

More Congratulations

Letters of congratulations are still coming to the matrons and students on the Campus concerning the program given over W. S. B. sponsored by the senior class recently.

Mrs. Martin, matron of Bell Hall, received a letter from a friend, Mrs. W. B. Moseley of Columbus. The letter began, "I have just listened to the splendid program sponsored by the senior class of G. S. C. W." She wrote of the enthusiasm evident in the greetings by the class president and the unusual loyalty of the students of G. S. C. W.

Mrs. Christian, matron of Bell Annex, received a letter from her mother, Mrs. Dora Nelson of Buena Vista, in which she complimented especially the violin solos on the program and the welcome expressed by the class president, Virginia Tanner.

Miss Florence Stapleton, Preston, and of the class of 1912, who was a visitor on the campus Saturday, stated that the program thrilled her beyond words. She had not previously known the program was to be broadcasted.

And while the girls have been so studiously confined to the library and other places of informative resource, Old Saint Nick hasn't been idle. Rumors have it that he has been casting his eyes around the campus, and that he is going to bring:

Betty Reed another pillow—the one she had been using got sat on the other day. Viola James a dime to stand on in the next big basketball game.

Evelyn Turner and OdT Smith both a pair of Chandler's tastiest new earrings.

These No-Well (Noel) Carrolers a drink of water.

Margaret K. Smith an informative pamphlet on "How To See New York In Four Days." (This will include information as to how to cope with taxi-drivers who take advantage of people who have never been to the big city before and ride them around the same block four times to run up the meter.)

The Brown's a large portion of Gold, frankincense, and myrrh.

Caroline Ridley a letter from—home.

Sue Mansfield some information on how to "adapt" herself to a new typewriter.

Eloise Kaufman a passing grade in Trig.

Billie Jennings a new bathing suit. (Hint: moth balls can be bought dirt cheap at Chandler's now.)

And everybody a nice, big surprise on her report card

Scoops

Alleluia—Oh, how the angels sang—

So runs the well-known Christmas song. But, let us forget the song for a moment and think of Tech! Ask "blonde" C. Coleman how the Angelo sang. He sounded kinda' fishy to me. I would offer you the last name, but I'm still trying to catch it. (Puff! Puff!)

And what happened to Atlanta? Well: V. Tanner was scared! —F. Wells, and M. Relihan who hated to leave—J. Peacock bought her a—(better ask her)—The two Virginia's got lost—Dody D. saw her "vision"—B. Watt and E. Turner double-dated—E. Howard won't tell—but she hears from him on Mondays—M. Gammage and Stubby cooked steak!—S. Mallard and A. Conner went "out"—and our bus broke down!

(I'm sure you've all heard THAT one. And "hats off" to the chap-erones—they were (are) all swell sports.

Everyone is cordially invited to "come up to see" the doll. It is really the cutest child I've ever owned. If Christmas doesn't hurry along—the little girl won't get it at all!

M. Anderson surely believes in "quarrels." Yeah. J. Anderson likes uniforms of Dahloega. L. Parker likes "Wrightsville"—Bonnie B. likes R. G.—(Note: Ask table six about it.)

M. Watson has written the best song!—and this isn't hearsay. With all the song writers on the campus, we oughta' get up a portfolio of G. S. C. W. songs for publication. Will someone please give me the words to "No Stars Tonight?"

There sho' is one thing certain—I bet this school is emptied of it's "flowers" by noon next Thursday. Will the time never pass? Am I asking you!

Merry Christmas—and a Happy New Year from Sappy

Mary McGavock Elected Head of Singing Club

The Singing Club of the Activity Council met for the first time on Tuesday December 12, at 5:30 in Terrell Rec Hall.

Officers elected were Miss Mary McGavock, Thomasville, president; Miss Evelyn Groover, Alocme, vice-president; and Miss Marjorie Sykes, Columbus, secretary and treasurer.

Plans for the year were discussed, after which the members of the club sang for the rest of the meeting.

G. S. C. W. FOR THE ALUMNAE

Misses Helen and Elise Hagan spent last Saturday in Macon.

Miss Carolyn Orabod of Sanderville was visited by her parents Tuesday.

Prof. and Mrs. Joseph Maers of Wesleyan Conservatory, Macon, attended the faculty concert Wednesday evening.

Mr. Ed Stapleton and Mr. Brinson Jones visited Miss Mary Agnes Stapleton last Wednesday.

Dr. Euri Belle Bolton gave a talk at the Eatonton school Wednesday, December 13.

Misses Nellie Burgan and Elizabeth Wooten were joint hostesses at a knick knack supper Sunday evening in Miss Miller's office studio. Those present were: Misses Mary Posey, Laura Lambet Mary Sawyer, Elizabeth Wooten, and Nellie Burgan.

A delightful steak supper and Christmas tree was held in the college tea room Sunday night. After supper was served Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts to all the guests. Those present were Misses Mary Posey, Amille Burrus, Mary Sawyer, Marie Patterson, Marjorie Sykes, Frances Dixon, Virginia Tanner, Eulalie McDowell, Harriet Trappnell, Evie Turner, Martha McGavock, Sally Ryan, and Carolyn Black.

Misses Martin and Trawick Entertain Chemistry Classes

Misses Lena Martin and Jessie Trawick entertained the Chemistry 326 and 322 classes at a dinner at the Fowler apartments Wednesday evening.

Miss Hallie Smith and Miss Sara Nelson assisted the hostesses in serving the delightful courses, consisting of creamed chicken, potato chips, hot rolls, jam and coffee, followed by dessert.

Breakfast For Miss Parks In Tea Room

One of the most interesting social affairs given for Miss Dorothy Parks, a December bride-to-be was the waffle breakfast at which Miss Ann Gibson entertained in the college tea room Sunday.

Margaret Mosley entertained with a musical program while the guests assembled. Misses Lillian Dillard and Virginia Phillips served the delicious two-course breakfast.

Mrs. Edwin H. Scott won the prize for the most original poem dedicated to the bride-elect.

Among those invited were Misses Parks, Mary Eberhart, Weathersby Hatcher, Nettie Calloway, Ernestine Boineau, Mary Alfriend, of Macon, Martha Bass, Mrs. Edwin Scott, Mrs. Martha Christian, and Mrs. Marvin Parks.

Margaret K. Smith Returns From N. Y.

For those who did not understand the storm of clapping in Atkinson dining hall at noon on Tuesday, December 12, Casey returned home!

Miss Margaret K. Smith, Y. W. C. A. president, returned from New York City after being away from the campus for ten days. She was one of five student representatives from the entire United States invited to the national conference of the Y. W. C. A., whose purpose was to formulate plans of the coming year for this organization.

Casey's journey was brimful of varied and exciting experiences. Miss Smith was rather abashed when, upon arriving at her hotel for the first time, she was asked for references. Luckily, her room was already reserved and there was no further difficulty.

Alumnae Association Issues Proclamation

"By the alumnae of the Georgia State College for Women—a proclamation.

"We, the alumnae of the Georgia State College for Women, do set aside and appoint the Christmas Season in Georgia and wherever the daughters of G. S. C. W. reside to be a G. S. C. W. Christmas for all the girls who are attending or have attended the Georgia State College for Women, Milledgeville, Georgia. May there be a G. S. C. W. Christmas party in every village, town, and county throughout the entire length and breadth of the State; reports of the various celebrations to be put in the local papers; and notices sent to the alumnae office.

"May G. S. C. W. girls, old and new, wherever they are, have the happiest Christmas in the history of the college."

Signed by
MARY LEE ANDERSON

Through the Week With the

Both vesper programs this week centered around Christmas. The one Thursday night consisted of several Christmas songs, in which everybody took part.

Sunday night the speaker was Reverend F. H. Harding from the Episcopal church, who talked on the birth of Christ. Some people think of Christmas at the time to have a grand time and let it go at that, but its meaning goes much further and one should be anxious to learn that and practice that deeper meaning.

The different committees and groups of the Y are planning a number of things they can do to help the poor during this season. They all will contribute something to as many families as possible—a few gifts that will make them grateful for Christmas. And that is one of the best ways to learn the deeper meaning of Christ's birthday.

Music Faculty, Honor Guest at Reception

Miss Beatrice Horsburgh, Miss Alice Lenore Tucker, and Mrs. Wyles Homer Allen, members of the music faculty, were honor guests at a lovely reception given by Mrs. Fern E. Dorris and Miss Annette Steele at their home on Elbert Street immediately after the faculty concert in the auditorium Wednesday evening, December 13.

Among the out of town guests were Professor and Mrs. Joseph Maerz and other members of the Macon Symphony Orchestra, of which Miss Horsburgh is a valued member. Professor Maerz is head of the music department at Wesleyan and Mrs. Maerz is violin teacher there. Approximately fifty G. S. C. W. faculty members were present.

The rooms were attractively decorated and delightful refreshments were served. Miss Steele and Mrs. Dorris were assisted by Misses Louise Albert, Frances Thaxton, and Willie Boggs.

Dr. Meadows Gives Examination Advice

"Follow these suggestions, and I'll guarantee that you will come nearer making a passing grade than you will if you don't follow them," says Dr. Meadows, psychology teacher, in giving advice on how to prepare for and how to

2. Get your usual amount of sleep, if not more.

3. Review well and get most important things fixed clearly in your mind.

4. Don't try to cram three months work into your head in three hours.

4. When you get to class, relax and let your knowledge flow forth

THE ALUMNAE FOR G. S. C. W.

Spears and Wilson New Geography Officers

The Geography Club met in the geography lab. Saturday night, December 9.

In the business meeting there was an election of two new officers, Jewel Spears, treasurer, and Louise Wilson, secretary.

A Christmas program followed in which Katherine Johnson, Margaret Wenzel, Louise Wilson and Roberta Champion told "How Christmas is Celebrated in Other Countries."

Tea and cakes were attractively served. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Dorris was presented a Christmas gift.

Library Assistants Are Entertained

One of the main features of the entertainment program of last week was a buffet dinner given for the library assistants Saturday evening in the tea room. The hostesses were Miss Virginia Satterfield, Miss Jimmy Dech, and Miss Helen Hagan.

The Christmas idea was most attractively presented in the table decorations of red candles and holly. Dinner was served by Misses Elsie Hagen and Grace Pfeiffer.

Miss Mildred Brinson favored the group with a delightful piano and vocal rendition of Christmas carols.

Sophomore Commission Is Entertained At Initiation Party

The sophomore commission entertained the new freshman council at an initiation party at Nesbit Woods on Saturday, December 16.

Members of the council were subjected to all sorts of tricks and jokes by members of the commission, but a "grand time was had by all." At the conclusion of the games, gifts from the Christmas tree were distributed to the guests of honor.

Commissioners in charge of the entertainment and decorations were Kathleen Roberts, Gainesville; Nan Glass, Atlanta; Rosalie Sutton, Brunswick, and Agnes Smith, LaGrange.

Besides the members of the council and commission, those present were Helen Barker, new adviser of council, Mary Louise Dunn, new adviser of commission, Polly Moss, and Margaret K. Smith.

Mr. Dunn received his B. S. degree in chemistry from South-Western.

While he was here he was entertained by the chemistry faculty. He was the house guest of Dr. Lindsley at "Westover."

Dr. McGee Speaks At Macon Library Forum

Dr. Sidney L. McGee was speaker on the program at the third meeting of the library forum at Washington Memorial Library in Macon Thursday night. The professor delivered his address on Germany Now and Then.

Mrs. Mark Etheridge, Macon, also a recently returned traveler in Germany lead the discussion following the address.

He spent 16 months in France and returned there for two years study in 1925. Last year he spent in Europe, and particularly in Germany.

Dr. McGee was invited by Miss Stella Akin, Librarian, to address the club.

Ruth Cox Given Progressive Party

Miss Virginia Cook ams hostess Sunday night at a progressive surprise party in honor of the birthday of Miss Ruth Cox. The first course was served by Georgia Gordon and Ida Pearl Neal in Terrell A-103. The party progressed to the next room, 104, and were served by Flora Smith, and Elizabeth Cox. Then the "progression" took the crowd to Atkinson, for the third course, Soca Rutland acting as hostess. Coming back to Terrell A, the progressive party stopped in the room of Adna Chewing and Elly served the fifth course. Finally, the party came back to Virginia Cook's room for the last course. It proved to be a huge birthday cake with pink candles on it. Coffee was also served.

Burgin Dunn Speaks At Chemistry Club

Burgin Dunn, who is an instructor of physics at Emory, and also doing research work on X-rays, spoke to the Chemistry Club last Saturday night in the biology lecture room. Mr. Dunn took up the four epochs in the history of physics, giving the outstanding men and their contributions in each period. He also gave a detailed discussion on X-rays, giving an outline of his research work.

Mr. Dunn received his B. S. degree in chemistry from South-Western.

While he was here he was entertained by the chemistry faculty. He was the house guest of Dr. Lindsley at "Westover."

Miss Horsburgh And Purdom Play In Macon Orchestra

The reaction what phase of symphonic literature promises to hold the most constructive good local evening.

Misses Horsburgh and Purdom attended the practices of the orchestra in Macon on Sundays.

Radio Programs To Be Sponsored By Extension Dept.

Monday, December 18, is a memorable day for G. S. C. W. as it inaugurated the Health, Happiness and Success hour, the school's voice over the air to be heard every Monday between 2:45 and 3:15 o'clock over W. M. A. Z., Macon.

The programs are sponsored by the department of extension division of general extension, University System of Georgia, at the Georgia State College for Women. They will be directed by Dr. George Harris Webber, sub-director in the division.

The continuing theme throughout the series is that of success philosophy. It will be supported by musical talent, speakers on current topics, dramatics, etc., by members of faculty and student body.

The first program featured the harmony trio, Evelyn Turner, Laura Lambert and Betty Watt singing several delightful selections.

Dr. Webber presented the theme of the programs as "Good Will" in a short, interesting talk. Two poems were given, "Each in His Own Tongue," and "The Answer to the Mar in the House by the Side of the Road."

On Christmas day, Christmas music and selections will be broadcast. The New Year program will feature Miss Margaret Moseley in a piano recital. On January 3, Dr. S. L. McGee will speak on "Hitler and the Present German Regime."

Music Faculty Give Recital

To hear splendid music G. S. C. W. students and faculty do not need to leave the campus, as indicated by the concert given by Miss Alice Lenore Tucker, Mrs. Wyles Homer Allen, and Miss Beatrice Horsburgh, in the auditorium Wednesday evening, December 13, at 8:30.

A large, appreciative audience listened with unusual interest to the delightful program.

Health Club Debates On Subject of Heredity And Environment

The Health 320 class had a debate Monday morning at 10:00 in the classroom. The question, "Resolved that heredity is more important than environment," was upheld on the affirmative by Maud New Sheppard, Helen Barker, and Margaret Burney; on the negative, by Frances Dixon, Emily Cowart, and Eloise Elzie. The affirmative won. Judges were Miss Hallie Smith, Miss Frances Thaxton, and Dr. William T. Wynn. Miss Thelma Williams presided as chairman; Miss Benua Kanney acted as time-keeper.

Christmas Program At Soph. Party

The old and new English sophomores enjoyed a Christmas program in Ennis recreation hall, Saturday afternoon from 4 until 6.

The main feature of the program was a play, "The Old Woman in the Shoe." Those taking part were, Miss Katherine Scott, the old woman in the shoe, Katharine Brooks, Little Boyblue; Mary B. Starr and Evelyn Wynn, Jack and Jill, Caroline Ridley, Simple Simon; Mary Favor, Little Jock Horner; Jean Sutherland, Little Miss Muffet; Caroline Orahoad, Little Bo-Peep; Evelyn Martin, Humpy Dumpty; and Melba Holland, Santa Claus; Good King Wenceslas was sung by Nan Glass and a choir composed of this year's English sophomores sang Christmas carols.

Literature Class Visits Sidney Lanier's Room In Former University

The Southern Literature class made its annual pilgrimage to the old room of Sidney Lanier in Oglethorpe University, Saturday. The room is in Thalian Hall, the one remaining building of the University, now a part of Allen's Invalid Home.

Dr. W. T. Wynn, teacher of the class, spoke feelingly of the sacredness of the spot made memorable by the fact that Sidney Lanier, the greatest of all southern poets, once lived and worked there.

On the returning hike to the dormitory, the class enjoyed a picnic supper in the woods.

Griffin Club Has Supper In Tea Room

The Griffin Club entertained Sunday night at 6:30 in the tea room at a waffle supper. The menu included waffles and syrup, country sausage, coffee, and ice cream.

Those present were Mildred Watson, Frances Cowan, Aline Wright, Marian Hartshorn, Dorothy Maddox, Virginia Drewry, Annie Scott Gunter, Catherine Digby, Martha Anne Moore, and Misses Josephine Pritchett and Catherine Weaver.

For its Christmas project the club decided to contribute to the Empty Stocking Fund in Griffin as soon as possible.

Birthday Party For Billie Eberhart

Miss Billie Eberhart was delightfully entertained on Tuesday December 12 with a surprise party given by Misses Beulah Thaxton, Frances Bone, Louise Jeanes, Harriet Campbell, and Gerry Reid at Miss Reid's attractive home.

Yellow chrysanthemums were used to decorate the living room where the guests were seated at card tables. Places for the guests were marked with attractive hand made tally cards. The cards were characteristic of the guests, and each person had to find her place by recognizing the card most characteristic of her.

At the conclusion of the games a delicious salad course was served. Miss Eberhart was then presented a number of lovely gifts arranged around a large birth-

Six Students Attend Atlanta Performance Of Ted Shawn

World Famous Dancers Presents Variety of Numbers.

Six girls from the campus accompanied Miss Miller to Atlanta Saturday, December 9, where they attended the performance of Ted Shawn, world-famous dancer, who was presented that evening at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

The program consisted of epic, religious, play, and labor dances which were executed by Mr. Shawn and his ensemble. The outstanding number on the program was Mr. Shawn's own interpretation of "John Brown Sees The Glory—An American Epic." Shawn is the former husband and dancing partner of Ruth St. Denis, who will appear here sometime in February.

There followed a number of other features, including Javanese, Indian, French, Spanish, American, and religious dances.

Those attending the entertainment besides Miss Miller were Vi James, Billie Jennings, Ruth Hunt, Dot Allen, Buena Kinney, and Margaret Burney.

It will be remembered that Ted

Dr. Daniels' Book To Be Published Soon

Dr. Francis Daniels, will have his first book of poetry, "The Golden Grove," released during January or February of 1934.

Dr. Daniels is a distinguished writer, having already produced several works among which are "Kathalamion," "Funeral Ode on Marvin M. Parks," and a "French Scientific Reader" which was for many years offered as a course in the college. He writes about scientific studies in textbooks and poems, and his works have been published in anthologies, magazines, books of poetry, and newspapers.

The new book upon which he has been working for some time, is his first collected volume of poetry and is expected to be his best creation.

Mrs. Roberts Has Tea For Practice Home Group

Mrs. "Mother" Marlowe Roberts gave a tea in honor of the home management girls at the home of Mrs. George Reid on Clarke Street, Saturday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30.

The invited guests were Miss Ruth Stone, Augusta; Miss Annie Hugh Hancock, Jefferson; Miss Sarah Lou Hodges, Statesboro; Miss Russell McEntire, Carnesville; Miss Emily Cowart, Union City; Miss Clara W. Hasslock, and Miss Gertrude Gissendanner.

Tea, sandwiches, and cookies were served.

Athletic Pageantry Guild Has Hike

The members of the Athletic Pageantry Guild enjoyed a hike last Saturday afternoon, chaperoned by Miss Blanche Greene, and Miss Margaret Candler. After hiking around Camel's Hump, hotdog dogs and coffee were enjoyed in Mr. Bank's pasture.

Those attending were Spillie Hamer, Kathleen Roberts, Dot Smith, Margaret Johnson, Billie Howington, and Althea Smith.

Do-Dads From Elsewhere

Freshman women at Adelphi College, poor creatures, must have a bald spot shaved on their heads which they cover with a hat and three feet of purple ribbon.

What we can't understand is how a bald spot can be shaved. If there's nothing in the way of bushy on an area in the freshmen's heads, what to do? It's all very perplexing.

Lion-taming is the latest craze in courses. The Collegiate Digest found a whole class wrapping the king of the jungle around their whips on the Goebel Lion Farm, near Lost Angeles.

Tulane brings Hawaii with everything from soft music and island songs to grass skirts to students on campus night. Mae West, an international character, will be impersonated. Uhhhhh!

A gentleman is a man who disagrees with a woman when she is praising another member of the so-called "weaker sex."—The Red and Black.

And all the time we thought the title applied to a man who disagrees with a woman when she praises the "stronger sex" as being superior to the weak ones.

What is the freshman coming to? The latest development occurs at Emory where a freshman at a pledge banquet was discovered picking ants off the flowers. If he had been picking them, we'd think little of it, but the pernicious pie he was consuming them! "The flavor's piquant," he informed a curious soph.

Harvard University, according to The Technique, owns enough football equipment to outfit 6,000 men.

It sounds very much like a museum or a uniform for an army. How come?

History Club Ends Term With Party

The History Club ended 1933 with a delightful meeting Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 in Dr. Johnson's classroom. Christmas decorations, including a beautiful tree, gave spirit to the program. Carols were followed by an original skit written by Dr. Johnson. Mary Alice Ingram told the Bible story of this season. Elsie Adams gave the origin of Christmas and Sue Mansfield sang a solo. Christmas games were played, after which delicious refreshments were served.

Health Club Entertains Athletic Guild

The Health Club entertained the Athletic Pageantry Guild Monday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30 in Terrell recreation hall. The program consisted of a talk by Miss Ruth Stone on the social work she is now doing in Baldwin County, a discussion by Louise Hatcher on the origin of the Christmas seal, and a tap dance by Juliette Burrus. After the program carols were sung around the tree on which Santa Claus had left each person a stocking filled with candy, nuts, and a doll. The radio provided music for dancing. Punch was served during the afternoon.

For its Christmas project the club has provided a box for a needy family.

Talk In Spanish Feature Of Club Program

Members of the Spanish Club were delightfully entertained at a social in Terrell big parlor from 4:30 to 6:00 Saturday.

Dr. William Salley addressed the club about the atmosphere among the people of Spain and Cuba. Also, he presented a surprise feature in the form of the Christmas carol, "Silent Night" sung in Spanish by his Spanish class.

After the program, games were enjoyed and carols sung by the group.

Believe It Or Not

The week of December 4-9 will live a long time in the memory of one of the faculty members. Dr. Francis Daniels. It is one of the famous first acts about G. S. C. For the first time since Dr.

Daniels has been teaching here (and that has been eleven years) he handed in a report with no absences for a whole week! It's no telling what this college is coming to if such astounding things keep happening to it.

New YWCA Cabinet Members Elected

Eleven students have been elected to the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet to fill vacancies made by members who resigned because of the point system.

Helen Barker was selected first vice-president of the Y., the position formerly held by Christine Goodson. Mary Louise Dunn replaced Virginia Tanner as second vice-president.

Julia Bailey, chairman of the social committee, was made executive of the social department, the office held by Dot Smith.

Annie Laurie Lanier filled Sue Mansfield's place as executive of the publicity department.

The new heads of the cabinet committees elected were Margaret Wenzel, worship; Eulalie McDowell, social; Louise Hatcher, athletic; Grace Webb, Bible study; Dot Andrews, bulletin board; Bobby Wilder, poster; Ann Jones, infirmary and Harriet Trapnell social service. These new members took the offices of Virginia Peacock, Julia Bailey, Irene Farren, Dorothy Maddox, Claudia Keith, Anna Everett, Marie Patterson and Josephine Peacock.

Home Ec Club Has December Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Home Economics Club was held in the college tea room, Saturday evening, December 8, at seven o'clock.

Miss Marie Patterson, the president, read a note of thanks received from Miss Rosabel Burch for flowers sent her by the club during her recent illness.

The Point System was explained fully. Next plans were made to make up a Christmas box for the less fortunate.

Miss Margaret Crane gave a delightful talk on "Who's Who in the Field of Home Economics Today."

After the program, cakes and punch were served.
